

PHD DEGREE PROGRAM

LIVING IN MEMPHIS

There is no on campus living accommodations. Off campus, living is available close by.

Although one of the largest metro areas in the Southeastern U.S., the region's small-town atmosphere fosters a close-knit community that makes it an attractive place for families to settle.

Memphis area's 10 colleges and universities bring in a younger demographic.

Memphis has one of the lowest costs of living for a large metro area.

Rent prices and mortgage expenses are considerably lower than the national average. Median Monthly rent rate is $863 (US News)

Expenses for food and services are also significantly lower than in other major regions.

Home to FedEx, St. Jude and Le Bonheur Children Hospitals, numerous sports and music venues, museums, and growth opportunities are abound!

PhD Degree

PROGRAM MISSION

Graduates of the Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences are prepared to assume positions of responsibility in academia, government, pharmaceutical industry, and other health-related organizations and institutions.

We provide graduate students a PhD level expertise in the area broadly defined as the pharmaceutical sciences, with emphasis in bioanalytical chemistry, medicinal chemistry, pharmacometrics, and drug delivery.

Worldwide collaborations allow students to reflect the stimulating and dynamic environment of the health science center.

REQUIREMENTS

Applications for the PhD program are accepted from students with a BS or MS degree in pharmacy, chemistry, biology, mathematics, engineering, or other appropriate disciplines.
